

Good Things: 'Read to Win', Enemy Love, Newborn Fawns

Written by Sunrise on KGMB9 - sunrise@kgmb9.com

June 10, 2009 06:00 AM

Barbers Point, Ewa, Maili, Makakilo and Mauka Lani Elementary Schools will each get $5,000 through the "Read to Win" program, run by "D.R. Horton-Schuler division."

In this program, students read a set number of books or pages each night. And those who reach their goal can win money for their school and prizes for themselves.

In a sign that world peace is possible traditional enemies have come together in Topeka, Kansas. After a mother cat was too weak to care for her four kittens, Sissy, a Pekingese dog put aside past differences and adopted the whole litter. The 4 year-old old canine even started nursing the kittens, hiding them protectively underneath her.

The town of Lakewood Colorado welcomed some new residents. Three "bambi's" were born just outside of an office building. They're getting a lot of attention from workers, especially during lunch hour. The fawns appear fine and don't appear to be concerned at all about the attention they're receiving.